THE VALUE OF A G. A. R. BADGE IN EUROPE.

A correspondent of the New York Herald, who was a soldier in the Union army during the great rebellion, writes from Antwerp:

Walking through the streets of the city, I noticed numerous military and civil gentlemen wearing somewhere round the vicinity of their breasts ribbons and crosses; so, said I to myself, "Pete, those men who wear these things of distinction have never in their lives smelled war powder, and you who have lost your blood at Petersburg, and left your bones somewhere around the Arkansas river, have you not as much, or more, right to wear something of the kind on your small stomach?" My jealousy and pride were pricked. I opened my trunk and found there, stowed in one of the corners, my badge of the G. A. R., I had it immediately gold-plated, and the next Sunday I paraded the streets, just as the high mass was over. The first crowd I met with exclaimed, "That is the 'Cross of the Legion of Honor' of the Holy Father" (?), another said that it was that of the Sultan of Turkey, but still greater was my ambition, when a sentry came at a "shoulder arms." Of course I returned him my nicest salute. My greatest fear was to meet with an American who should have exposed me, but if they saw me, they have had the good sense not to do it, which favor I expect from your charming readers, should they, in their future rambles, meet with my humble self. Who, then, will presume to say that a "badge of the Grand Army of the Republic" is useless? I live now on the pride derived from it, which has prevented me from throwing myself into the Scheldt.

THE CASSIAR GOLD MINES.

There is a little more news from the Cassiar gold mines, brought down by the California on her last trip from Sitka. On her way she called at Tongas and Fort Wrangle. Save and except one Custom House officer, every one had left for the mines—traders and all. The Stickeen river mouth being deserted, Messrs. Smith & Adams had gone up to the mines, as well as Bromowitch, whose goods were on the California, and are conveyed back to Portland, there being no one at Fort Wrangle to receive them. Mr Goodhue the purser, brought along some coarse wash gold, as pure and beautiful as that from Lightning creek. It will assay $18.50 per ounce of which he takes down $250. There are several U. S. Army officers on the California. They will land at Victoria and proceed to Port Townsend on the North Pacific. They have in their possession some fine nuggets, from $10 to $25. A miner who came down on the California obtained two ounces of gold from three feet of bedrock. There are from ten to twenty men at the mines, who have gone up to stake claims and will be shortly down again.—Tacoma Tribune.

THE STATE FAIR.

THIRTEENTH ANNUAL FAIR OF THE OREGON STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The Display in the Pavilion—About the Stock-Pens—The First Race of the Week—Total Receipts, $3,100.

STATE FAIR GROUNDS,
SALEM, Oct. 6, 1873.

The prospects for a successful Fair were never so flattering as at the present writing. There are more people camped on the ground this morning than ever before on the morning of the first day, and the rate at which they are pouring in, is highly gratifying to the Managers of the Society. At present, the scene is one of great activity and bustle. All are preparing for the week's campaign. Booths are springing up on every side, while the noisy importunities of the hackmen can be heard on all sides.

THE SHOW OF STOCK,

So far, is very superior, and will compare favorably with any State in the Union, especially in cattle. There is quite a rivalry among horsemen.

Mr. W. C. Myer, of Jackson county, has brought his celebrated Percheron horses, of which I will speak more fully in a day or two, when they will be paraded.

Hon. John Minto and others, who are noted for their success as sheep-raisers, have several lots, and are busy bringing their flocks on the ground. Their good natured rivalry will be interesting, and will go far to show the people of the State the success, thus far obtained, in that branch of stock raising.

THE ENTRIES IN THE PAVILION,

So far, have not been very numerous, but still are greater than at any time before. A great many suppose that Monday is the principal day of entrances, when it really is not, as a great number do not arrive on the grounds until that day, and generally those from a distance do not get here until late in the evening.

THE FLORAL DEPARTMENT

Is now well represented, and I am told that the prospects are flattering for a good display.

Mr. G. L. DePrans has a goodly number of

ORGANS AND PIANOS

On exhibition, and quite a crowd is constantly around them enjoying their rich tones.

Mr. C. D. Snyder has manufactured a Landscape Scenery out of pasteboard, decorated with boats cars, etc, of which I will give a full description to-morrow.

MR. JOSEPH BUCHTEL

Of Portland, has contributed quite a number of his superb Photographs, which are an interesting feature of the exhibition.

The weather, at the present writing, is threatening rain, and if it should last but a short time, it will prove a benefit, especially in laying the dust; but a longer duration would be detrimental, and keep many away from the Grounds.

THE STOCK.

The cool and comfortable day, the prospect of a week of delightful weather and the general prosperity of the farmers are all favorable to a more than usual display of stock, both in number and superior blood. The indications already are that the number and superiority of breed will far exceed any of the former State Fairs of Oregon.

R. E. Stewart and sons, of North Yamhill, make a fine display of thoroughbred cattle. Their thoroughbred shorthorn bull, Baron Bedford, is only two years old. He was bought from J. H. Peckard, of Ill.; he is half brother to the celebrated bull Baron Lewis. Baron Bedford is a large animal and still growing; he promises to be a powerful and valuable addition to the stock of the State. He took the first prize at the late Linn County Fair. Their bull, Hanibal, is a red thoroughbred, shorthorn, four years old and weighs 2,100 pounds. He took the first prize in the Sweepstakes at the Linn County Fair last month. He was bred by G. J. Hagerty, of Ohio; is distinguished for his square, compact form, and the calves sired by him have given great satisfaition. Their thoroughbred shorthorn cow, Belle of White Oak, is a light roan, six years old, bred by Mr. McMillen, of Xenia, Ohio and bought from J. N. Brown and sons, of Ill. She possesses most of the qualities for which the Durhams are so famous. She has had one calf since she came to the State, that gave great promise, but it died shortly after being exhibited at the last State Fair.

Their cow, Markham Maid, is a thoroughbred shorthorn. She was bred by George Miller Markham, Ontario, Canada, and imported by the Messrs. Stewarts. She is a four-year old, and a great favorite with her owners. Her calf, Oregon Maid, four months old, is the exact color of her mother, has all her good points, and promises to be her equal in all respects.

Their red and white thoroughbred two-year old cow, Miss Miller, is a real fancy animal of rare beauty, and greatly admired.

Her bull calf, St. Joseph, is two months old, pure red and white. He is the favorite calf in R. E. Stewart & Son's herd, and promises to be a most valuable acquisition to the thoroughbred stock of Oregon.

Their red and white thoroughbred shorthorn cow, Bonnie Belle, is a two-year old. She was bred by G. J. Hagerty, of Nashport, Ohio, and sired by the famous bull Sweepstakes of Kentucky. This is a small cow, but beautiful in form and figure. Her cow calf, Prairie Belle, is red and white, like the mother; was sired by Baron Bedford, and is in every sense a beautiful calf.

Their heifer, Orphan Belle, is a red thoroughbred shorthorn, one year old. She is in calf to Baron Bedford. Her mother was bred by James W. Brown & Son, Ill., and bought of the Messrs. Stewart. This heifer was born after arriving in Oregon. She is considered a first class heifer, and much admired by stock men.

Their Ayreshire bull, Evendale Farmer is a two-year old, powerful animal. He was imported from Canada when a calf. He is a pure red and white, and has a great reputation for getting fine stock, distinguished for their milking qualities.

Their Ayreshire red and white cow, Bess, is a three-year old, and was imported from Canada by the present owners. She possesses many of the best qualities peculiar to her breed.

Her bull calf, Willamette Farmer, is the image of his mother—red and white—he is five months old, and is an extremely beautiful calf, and highly prized by his owners.

Their Ayreshire cow, Rose, two years old, is a light red, and is half sister of the cow Bess. She is a small cow, but a famous milker. So much so, that she kept the family of six persons in milk all the season.

Their year old heifer Myrtle is also a red and white color. The cow Bess is her mother, and was sired by the celebrated bull Tarbolten, of Canada. She is well formed, and very beautiful.

R. E. Stewart & Sons also exhibit a bull and calf of the Holstein breed. The bull called by them the Fourth Lord of Taxalleer, is a thoroughbred of his class, is a pure white, and two years old. The cow Midwould Thirteenth, is a black and white color, two years of age and a famous milker. They were raised by W. W. Chenery, of Boston, from pure imported stock. This class of stock are equally good for raising prime meat as they are distinguished for great milkers.

Mr. S. G. Reed's stock occupies a prominent place in the show-yard, and appears to great advantage. Among his shorthorns is the bull Governor General. He is an animal of great fame, both in the Eastern States and the Pacific coast. He is a beautiful roan, nearly three years old, and bred by M. H. Cochran, of Canada. He is an animal of immense substance, well laid shoulders, prominent bosom and level all over.

The Lord of the Valley is a bull that is universally admired. He is 11 months old, from the pure Booth cow Honeysuckle, by Cochran's imported Booth bull Royal Commander. He is valued by the owner at $8,000. There is a grandeur and massiveness about him, combined with a symmetrical form that has never been surpassed by any animal of his age. He won the Challenge Cup at the late Hillsboro Fair, beating the Governor General, who stood victorious in ten different occasions in the United States—the first time he was ever beaten.

The white bull calf Mount Hood won the first prize at the Hillsboro Fair, held last month. He is very thick of flesh, short legged, and a grand sample of early maturity.

Captain Jack is a red and white bull calf, six months of age. He is a fine specimen of what a well cared for shorthorn calf can be brought to.

Mr. Reed exhibits some of his thoroughbred shorthorn cows. Among them are four, some of them prize winners previous to their importation.

Rose Sovereign is a magnificent rich roan Booth heifer, possessing great body, short legs, and shows great constitution.

Glossy Woodbine is a three year old, deep red cow, famous in the old country as the winner of the fifty guinea Purdon challenge cup open to all Great Britain and Ireland, when but a year old.

Rosedale resembles very much the latter in excellence, and is of the same family as the animals sold at Mr. Campbell's sale at New York Mills on the tenth of Sept.

Primrose is a beautiful Booth heifer, roan in color and dam of the beautiful snow white bull Mount Hood. She is either half sister or closely connected to ten of the principal prize winners in England this season.

Bell Flower is a two year old roan heifer. She resembles the bull Governor General in character,—she being got by the same sire,—the celebrated imported Booth bull General Napier, that now stands at the head of the Glenn Flora herd.

Glossy Sixth is a lovely roan heifer calf; sired by Governor General; her dam was Glossy Fifth, which virtually makes her a Booth heifer. She is an animal of great perfection and maturity. Competent judges have no hesitation in saying that she is as fine a calf as was ever seen on the Pacific coast.

It is gratifying to learn that the stock that Mr. Reed has raised from his thoroughbred shorthorns are superior to his imported cattle. Mr. Reed, of Washington county, and the Messrs. Stewart, of North Yamhill, have laid the State under great obligations by the large number of thoroughbred stock of the best kind, that they have imported and raised in Oregon.

Saxe Bros. and Col. Saxe exhibit eleven thoroughbred shorthorn Durham bulls, brought direct from Kentucky.

Grand Prince is a magnificent animal. He is a pure deep red, two years old and weighs 1,950 pounds. They value him at $1,500.

Washington Duke is a deep red, two years old.

Bell Duke is a strawberry roan, one year old.

Mocomo is a red and white one year old bull.

Logan is a year old roan bull.

The Duke of Hildom Second is a red bull calf. Lord Lilly is a year old roan bull. Hannibal is a red bull calf. Saxecoburg is a red bull calf. Bertram is a year old red bull.

Col. Saxe exhibits the two year old roan bull, The Beau. These bulls will all be offered for sale after the examination by the Judges. They are valued at from $1,600 to $400 each, and are all from the best stock raisers in Kentucky.

TROTTING.

At 1:30 P. M. the cry of the Marshals was heard above the noise and bustle of the crowds, calling the opening race of the week. It was a trotting, 2 in 3, for horses that have never beaten three minutes; 1st premium, $150; 2d premium, $50. Going to the grand stand we found a large and impatient crowd awaiting the event. On all sides were heard the cries of Young America anxious to be "bit" by his shrewder and elder relative. Betting was quite as brisk as could be expected on this, the first race, and considerable money changed hands. The entries were as follows: C. P. Bacon, named s. m. Fannie Fern. William Gird named b. m. Minnie Montgomery. L. B. Lindsey b. m. Lilly. The horses started well together in both heats. On the second heat Minnie Montgomery behaved badly, running and going off her feet constantly. The race and first money was won by Lilly in two straight heats. Time—3:20 and 3:13½. Fannie Fern second, and Minnie third.

THE TOTAL ENTRIES

Up to 4 P. M. are: Horses, 63; cattle, 40; sheep, 10; flowers, 54; preserves, etc., 48; music, 5; millinery, 100; garden produce, 12, domestic manufacture, 3; wild animal, 1; fruit, 1; dairy, 5, woolen manufactures, 7; swine, etc., 2, natural history, 31; agricultural implements, 5.

THE TOTAL RECEIPTS

Of the day foot up $3,100, an amount considerably in excess of the first day of last year.

A KISS IN THE DARK.

WHAT RISKS YOUNG MEN RUN.

[From the Toledo Blade.]

Mr. Timothy Jeers, on Madison street, has a daughter who is old enough to be interesting to our city beaux, and is also very attractive in appearance. But if there is any one thing more than another our friend Tim despises, it is too see young girls, the age of his daughter, having their heads full of nonsense as he terms it,—and it is pretty generally understood among the young men, that they run some risk of not meeting a very cordial reception when they call on Minnie Jeers.

Last Thursday night Tim was down town on business, and when he reached th street, near his house, on his way home, he heard a low murmur of conversation, and saw a young man talking to his daughter over the gate. He knew now why it was she was so anxious to go to the conference meeting, and his anger was kindled to a white heat by seeing that young man deliberately bend over the gate and kiss Minnie. He then said "good night" and turned to go home, but Tim thought he had something to say to this proceeding, and caught up with him, took him by the ear, and delivered several well directed kicks under the young man's coat.

"Let go, let go!" shouted the young gallant at the top of his voice; but Tim held him by the ear, till his anger was satisfied, and then with the remark that he needn't come around that house till he was sent for, he let him go and walked into the house.

Mrs. J. was sitting at the table reading, and asked him what the noise was she had just heard in the street.

"Nothing of any consequence," said Tim, "I have said often enough that I will not have a pack of boys running after Minnie, and I mean it. I just saw one kiss her over the gate, and I expostulated with him in a manner that will deprive us of his company hereafter."

"Why, Timothy Jeers! What do you mean. Our Minnie has been in bed over an hour!"

"Whew!" said Tim, "then who in thunder was it the fellow kissed at the gate?"

"Perhaps the cook had a young man home with her; I will go and see." But before she could leave the room the cook came in, face aflame, an indignation in her eyes. She waited not a second but broke out—

"Which I wish to leave at once, ma'am. I couldn't stay longer ma'am." And no persuasions or explanations were of any avail, leave she did.

Tim says he regrets punishing an innocent man, but after all it is well to have it understood in the neighborhood that he will not allow any kissing going on on his premises.

SALVINI'S COSTUMES IN OTHELLO.—In the first act he has the drab burnous and rich scarlet tunic with shawl turban—this is in peace and in council. In Cyprus he is accoutred in harness of war, cuirass, steel turban and steel greaves. In the domestic scenes he is habited in embroidered blue jacket and loose Zouave drawers with yellow slippers, and in the death scene he comes on the stage bare-headed and with yellow robe de nuit. In this respect he adopts the idea of Edwin Booth, whose costume was essentially Moorish or Tunisian.—New York World.

Don Carlos, as King of Spain, has issued a postage stamp bearing his portrait.

OREGON.

Nearly all the Indians belonging to the Umatilla Reservation are now reported to be loafing around Walla Walla.

The types yesterday morning made us say that Gov. Grover would speak at Hillsboro on the 16th. It should have been next Friday, the 10th inst.

We feel it our duty even at this late day to speak of the excellent order which prevailed on the grounds throughout the entire time of the Hillsboro Fair. Under the management of the Grand Marshal, Mr. F. L. Stott and his aids, and the Superintendents of the classes, everything worked admirably.

A short time since Mr Walker, near Forest Grove, had fifty bushels of wheat stolen; and then Mr. A. Horner was called upon to mourn the loss of a quantity of oats, and now comes Mr. Hubbard and states that during a brief visit to Portland his granary was opened and an unknown quantity of grain feloniously abstracted therefrom.

A THIRD TERM

It is evident that the people are really ceasing to govern, except in serious emergencies. Of course, as our republic is representative and not democratic, they have never governed directly. They have governed, except in the choice of the President, indirectly through representatives. The theory is that they elect such representatives as they please. The fact has come to be that they elect only such as a very few men designate. It is a government of the caucus or primary meeting; and the caucus is controlled by a few who have a special personal interest in the result, which the rest have not. That superior intelligence should rule is natural. But this ruling class does not represent superior intelligence. When the voter comes to the poll, he does not vote for the candidate whom he prefers, nor for that one whom the best men of his party prefer, but for him who best suits the selfish interest of a small class. This class in our political community is that of the office-holders, and the office-holders depend, directly or indirectly, under our civil service system, upon the pleasure of the President. They are distributed throughout the country. They are felt in every party committee and primary meeting. Politics, nominations, the selection of delegates, are not their pastime, but their bread-and-butter. Through them the President may be coercively present in every caucus and that presence is the germ of Cæsarism. We observe as we write a curious illustration of this truth. In reconstituting the Republican State Committee of Massachusetts, the delegation from each county named the members from the county. It was proposed in the Berkshire delegation to omit from the committee Mr. Tinker, an internal revenue collector, who had made himself peculiarly offensive as a Butler agent. The delegation were strongly opposed to him. But, according to the report, one of the members "pleaded for his retention on the ground that, being an office holder, he represented the Administration, and that it would be a censure upon Grant to remove him!" Is it not time to consider? For Cæsarism is merely absolute personal power under constitutional forms. Augustus did not overthrow the form of the old Roman republic. That remained unchanged. There was no diadem, no court. As Senator, Cæsar voted in the Senate, and his power was renewed to him from time to time. Even the parody of Cæsarism in France professed to be founded upon universal suffrage. Tyrants always wish to show that they are "the elect." No American President, however madly ambitious, would grasp a crown and wear the purple. He would seek to gain permanent power by the misuse of patronage to secure constant renominations and to corrupt public sentiment.

Here is a plain peril. Why did not the fathers guard against it in the Constitution? Simply because it did not then exist, and could not be foreseen. The original proposition in the Convention was that the term of the Presidency should be seven years, and that the Chief Magistrate should not be re-eligible. But as he was to be indirectly elected, as there was virtually no army except the State militia, and as he had the power neither of the purse nor of the sword, the fathers supposed that they had removed all chance of danger from a re-election. Naturally they were more jealous of the power of the executive than of any other branch of the Government. But when they had, as they supposed, incapacitated the President from securing his own re-election, they were willing to trust that question to the people. That the development of the Government would create a vast civil army, encamped throughout the country, highly organized, selfishly devoted to the will of the Administration, and commanded from the capital, no human wisdom could foresee. When Washington was President the whole number of subordinate officers in the civil service was hardly larger than that of those who are to-day employed in the New York Custom house alone. The first Blue book, published in 1801, during Jefferson's administration, is a most modest volume. But those who may now properly be called office-holders, including the laborers in navy-yards and upon the public works, whose muscle is always found so serviceable to an Administration in doubtful primaries, are not less than a hundred thousand persons. In this army lie whatever perils of Cæsarism and of centralization possibly threaten us. Forty years ago, Webster and Calhoun warned the country against the aggrandizement of the executive power. What would they say now?

The practical remedy is obvious. It is to do what the fathers supposed they had done. It is to restrict the civil service to its proper function, by removing it from mere party control. When that is done, a third term or a sixth term need be no more alarming than a first term. But until that is done, it may anxiously and justly be asked whether a third term does not make a sixth term more probable. The other remedy which has been proposed, the one-term amendment, is entirely unsatisfactory. It would not prevent the peril which arises from the present system of the civil service, and might easily expose the country to serious danger, as it would have done during the rebellion.—Harper's Weekly Sept. 27th.

GENERAL NOTES.

The stone for the Standish monument at Duxbury, Mass., has been all cut and is nearly all on the top of Captain's Hill. The laying goes on to the amount of about eighteen inches in height per day. The stones contributed by the New England States form the sides of the main arch on the south door-way, and that of the United States, presented by President Grant, is the key-stone. It was contemplated to invite the President to set this stone when here in the summer, but it was not quite ready, and it is hoped that the Vice-President will do it in about a fortnight. The Maine and New Hampshire stones were set on Thursday, and those of the New England States will be set next week without formal ceremonies.

Many of the mill girls at Chicopee, Mass., are becoming inveterate snuff dippers, and on any pleasant "nooning" groups of girls can be seen on the canal bridges, each supplied with a box of snuff and a bunch of cotton waste, rubbing their gums with infinite satisfaction. The mill girls at Lowell have long been addicted to this habit, but its advent in Chicopee is quite recent.

A granite block weighing forty-three tons has just been quarried at Westerly, Rhode Island. It is the largest ever quarried there, and is intended for the die of the Cummings monument to be erected at Greenwood, the base of which is to be ten feet eight inches square and two feet thick, and the shaft fifty feet in height overall. The Worcester soldiers' monument, a very fine piece of chiseling, has just been delivered, and so has the monument of General Anderson at West Point.

THE TERRITORIES.

The Walla Walla grand jury found nine indictments last week.

The road between Lewiston and Walla Walla is said to be in a very bad condition.

Immensely rich discoveries are reported to have been recently made in Missoula county, Montana.

Three jurors at Walla Walla last week were fined the amount of their pay for the term because of tardiness.

The stone work of the Territorial Penitentiary, on McNeil's Island, in Pierce county, W. T., is entirely done, and the brick work is rapidly following suit.

From Gov. Salomon, the Resident Director of the Olympia Railway and Mining Company, the Tribune learns that the prospects of the road are very encouraging.

On Monday, the 22d ult., at Bozeman, the corner stone of a Methodist Episcopal Church edifice was laid with appropriate ceremonies. Revs. Iliff, Alderson, and Bird officiated.

Henry G. Norton, associate editor of the Montanian, goes East October 1st, to bring out his anxiously awaited book, entitled "Wonderland, or Horseback rides through the National Park."

On Tuesday of last week, a son of L. F. Holman, living about two miles north of Walla Walla, was kicked by a horse and badly injured. The boy was about seven years old. He was badly cut in the skull and forehead.

The Montanian, of the 18th of September, has the following: While at York, Stinkingwater, last week, we were shown by Mr. Alex. Metzel the ground and the two crops of barley that had been harvested from it this season. Both crops were good. After the first crop was cut the ground was irrigated, and the second crop came up voluntarily.

The Bellingham Bay Mail says a most unfortunate man is Mr. Crandall, of Fidalgo. Not being satisfied with having been riddled with the spring gun, his leg broken thereby, which subsequently had to be amputated and his life despaired of by his physicians, when he is now in a fair way of recovering from his injuries he falls down and breaks the other leg at the thigh.

Articles have been filed in the Secretary's office at Olympia, incorporating the McCarver Street Wharf Company, by D. B. Hanna, John S. Hill and M. M. McCarver. The object is to construct a wharf at the foot of McCarver street, in Tacoma. The capital stock is $18,000, divided into 100 shares of $100 each. Also articles of incorporation of the Tacoma Water Company, by the same parties, with a capital stock of $50,000, divided into 1,000 shares, of $50 each, the purpose being to bring pure fresh water into Tacoma.

The latest advices, says the Courier, from "the great city" of Tacoma, report everything distressingly quiet. All the hands on the railroad have been discharged except a few Chinamen who are employed by Montgomery. Over 3,000 feet of water pipe have been contracted by the parties intending to furnish Tacoma with water. Mr. Fred. Sahm has entered upon the discharge of his duties as post-master. Mrs. McCarver, while horseback riding at Tacoma, recently, was severely injured by the horse on which she was riding falling backwards and rolling over her.

The Boston Globe, of the 20th ult., says: A day, or two since, we referred to the departure of the Tuscarora for Puget Sound for the purpose of conveying the line for an ocean cable between America and Asia. The cable in prospect will probably be laid from Puget Sound to the Aleutian Islands, thence to Southern Kamschatka, thence by way of the Kurile Islands to Japan, crossing the narrow sea near the southern point of the Corean peninsula to Shanghae, China. The Northern Pacific Railroad terminates at Puget Sound, and the cable will communicate with the lines along this road, as well as with lines from Puget Sound to San Francisco.

A short time since, a Mr. Benjamin, with his wife and child, left Walla Walla in his wagon for his home in the Spokane country. When between the Palouse and Pine Creek, not far from Graden & Lawrence's, the wagon suddenly up-tipped from the shelf or bench on which they were driving, and precipitated all three into the dust. The wagon fell on top of both mother and child, the tongue broke, and the horses fell back on the wagon. Mr. Benjamin was unhurt. Another team being just behind, and the driver witnessing the accident, hastened to the scene. The wagon was righted, and the mother and child taken from the dust. Both were literally buried. When the child, a little girl of five or six years, was digged out, she was "stone dead," with her mouth, eyes and ears completely filled with dust. The mother was very severely injured, and it is doubtful whether she may recover, especially as her injuries seem severe, and there is no physician in that region.

A gentleman just down from the Spokane country, informs the Walla Walla Spirit of a case of horse stealing on a large scale which has just occurred in that region. The two persons known to be concerned are Scranton, former partner of Downing in the Spokane mills, and notorious in the late case of cattle stealing, and a man whose name is Charles Maize. Several other parties are suspected, but as the proof is not strong in their cases, we refrain from mentioning names. The stealing or taking away of the animals occurred about two weeks since. About forty head of horses and mules are supposed to have been taken. Four horses and six mules were taken from a Frenchman by the name of Comeski, ten horses from the Charles Kimball property at the Spokane bridge, several from a man by the name of Moon, besides others stolen. The thieves emigrated with the stolen animals in the night. On learning of the theft the Deputy Sheriff of Whitman county pursued them. Information of their fording the Spokane was obtained from a party of surveyors whom they passed. After pursuing them as far as Lewiston, where one mule that had been left behind was recovered, the Deputy, finding that the thieves were several days in advance, and being unable to overtake them, gave up the pursuit.

TUESDAY MORNING OCTOBER 7 1873

A COWARDLY EVASION

The Bulletin in referring to the vigorous words of Harper's Weekly on the subject of party fealty which we published last Saturday garbles the plain meaning of the article and strives to grasp the threatening steel to forge therefrom a blade for Hiram Smith's defense. We propose to show in as few words as possible the dishonest means to which this desperate champion of social vices will resort in its last dire extremity.

The Bulletin says the pith of our quotation "is simply this: If bad men are nominated there is no obligation to support them." And then it goes on to say that Hiram Smith is not a bad man and is not, therefore, liable to the definition of Mr. Curtis. We will quote Harper's again, asking our readers to notice the words italicized:

Every Republican however who knows the practical value of an existing and efficient organization and who honors the party name and tradition will do what he can to have the party represented by its best men and held to its highest aim. This can be done only by refusing to support improper nominations, however 'regular' they may be and by vigorously censuring all improper action upon the part of representatives. Let every voter remember that rogues do not make a party and that the only way to control them is to defeat them. If they find that bad men are not supported they will nominate good men. And if by the refusal to support their action, the opposition succeeds, it is the managers not the voters, who are responsible. This kind of independence was never so easy as it is now. The present duty of Republicans is not so much to support the party as to insist and take to care that the party shall be worthy of support.

It will readily be perceived that this paragraph comprehends much more than the Bulletin has seen fit to confess. It recognizes the right and duty of every Republican to measure the fitness of a candidate for popular suffrage by the record he professes and the principles he represents. This is the first and most important consideration. After it and secondary to it comes the consideration of availability—of personal fitness. The extract does not teach that bad men alone should be opposed—as the Bulletin would have us believe. It rather urges that all candidates improperly nominated should be defeated. And furthermore it calls for the censure of "all improper action upon the part of representatives." Now, a nomination may be improper notwithstanding the nominee be a man of spotless reputation and blameless life. In the eyes of the Albany Convention, the nomination was improper because it was secured by a fraud. At least, a fraud lay at the bottom of the whole work of that body, and nothing is plainer than the conclusion that the tincture of that fraud entered into everything that followed [illegible]tion. This is conceded by every person not immediately connected with the guilty clique. It is the position held by every intelligent citizen who has the weal of the whole country at heart. It is even assented to by those who [illegible] pledged to support Hiram Smith on the ground that he is the regular nominee.

It is the first duty of every Republican to see that the party has for its representatives good men who stand on good principles. These considerations are primary, they are fundamental and from them all [illegible]. We propose in another article to show that the Albany nomination [illegible] according to this definition. The Bulletin has been guilty of an evasion unworthy an honest journalist. It seals its doom in the adoption by the Republicans of Oregon of the sound principles set forth in the extract from which we take our text. As to its charge that the OREGONIAN seeks to justify its [illegible] by Harper's Weekly we have to say that the OREGONIAN enunciated, three weeks ago, the very doctrine taught by [illegible]. And yet we would not be [illegible] to accept Harper's Weekly as a [illegible]. And we are glad to be "justified" by the opinions of all good men. We have no fears but that we shall be justified by the people on the 13th inst.

THE MEANNESS OF MONOPOLIES

We do not refer to the stupendous [illegible] and impositions practiced by those grown corporations whose hand is now at the nation's throat. The people of the great producing West [illegible] to the grievous necessity and [illegible] of their power, are attending to [illegible] evils. To them their future may be left. We have, however, here [illegible] very midst, a monopoly composed of several corporations, controlled by one ruling spirit, which for attention to petty detail and smallness of purpose can be equalled.

[illegible] through these columns has been made before to the fact that freight rates have been advanced on our railroads in direct ratio to the advance in the price of grain. The result of such action is obvious to every producer. It declares in unmistakable terms, that no matter how high the price of grain may be in foreign markets, the railroad ring will fix the price for the farmer who is sneeringly told that if he doesn't like the rates established by this private corporation, which however has condemned his land for a public use, he can take the county road as he did in the days before grants of our public lands had warmed this monopoly into being.

This monopoly has distinguished itself in other fields. It is not enough to break down and destroy thriving villages along the railway line by locating depots in inaccessible places. It is not enough to take all the profits of wheat culture as freights. It is not enough to allow no paper but the ring organ to be carried on the cars. It is not enough to monopolize the peanut and water business on the railway lines to the exclusion and detriment of several small boys! No, it was reserved to our magnanimous monopoly to discover that several draymen outside of its corporation, men with small means were earning an honest livelihood for themselves and families without paying tribute to the [illegible]. This was sufficient to excite the cupidity of the ring. Hence the fiat has gone forth that these draymen must be crushed. What next?

The subscription raised in England for Signor Mario has now reached £6,000 and it is proposed to purchase a freehold villa for presentation to the once great tenor.

QUITE CHARACTERISTIC

Any one taking up the Bulletin of yesterday morning would have seen at the head of the first column on the first page a pretty full description of the execution of the Modocs at Fort Klamath on Friday last headed "Special from Fort Klamath." Of course the Bulletin wanted to convey the impression that it had telegraphed these details from Jacksonville, when it is a matter of fact that the pretended special was simply the OREGONIAN'S extra of Sunday revised and slightly amended. The OREGONIAN was the only paper in Oregon that had a correspondent at the scene of the execution. It was also the only paper that telegraphed a line on the subject. The appropriation of our dispatch by the Bulletin as a matter of news was not objectionable, but when it attempts to hoodwink its readers and gain credit for something it has not done we feel inclined to puncture the windbag. If the Bulletin had put at the head of its pretended special "From the OREGONIAN extra of yesterday" we should have been inclined to credit it with truthfulness for once. But it seems determined to forestall our every effort in that direction.

A VENDETTA AND ITS BLOODY END

By a dispatch from Salem to this office, we are informed that "in a general row at Dallas Polk county, yesterday afternoon, Til Glaze shot and killed A. H. Whitley." The bloody tragedy which has had an ending so bloody has been in progress for several years past. It will be remembered that a son of the man slain on yesterday was killed in Glaze's saloon at Dallas in the early part of the summer. At that time we published an interesting account of the origin and progress of the feud. At the time of his death, Whitley stood convicted of assault with intent to kill and we believe his case was on appeal to the Supreme Court. He has always borne the reputation of being a dangerous man, and his presence in the quiet community of Dallas has always been a source of terror to his numerous enemies.

THE MONOPOLY AND ITS REMEDY

It is hard to say where this menacing monopoly will pause. The people feel themselves so helpless against it, its possible results are so appalling that we are not surprised at the appeals made to the Government to take control of the railroads. Yet to our thinking the petitioners would overturn the dynasty of King Log to establish the throne of King Stork. With a civil service which lives and moves and has its home in political considerations it would be in an upheaval. For the present underlying evil is the league between capitalist and politician. While therefore we suffered the passive disappointment of [illegible] like the sinner in the old hymn that [illegible] poor relief we gain to change the place but keep the pain, we should have committed the active error of creating a danger as precedent. We have not yet [illegible] our way habit of looking on with apprehension while the Government assumes extraordinary powers. And the projects of a national university, national telegraph line, national railways do appeal to the imagination. But abstractly Government has no more business to meddle with these interests than it has to regulate the price of flour or the rates on a turnpike. If we give up the principle our last state will be worse than our first.

But if Government cannot interfere the governors of government can. The remedy of these sufferers lies, it seems to us, in their own votes. Individually they are poor and weak. Collectively they are rich and strong. If they will combine for their own protection as the railroad oligarchy has combined for its own advancement they are masters of the situation. It is an easy formula. It is a hard achievement. For these men are bound hand and foot in many cases by companies and an independent vote is bought with present loss or ruin. Nevertheless it is the only way and the sooner it is followed the better. The unpleasant truth is that the farmers have shirked politics as being too busy to attend to them while they have joined in the good and made their talk of bullocks and forgotten the general good in their selfish seeking of narrow ends while the railway corporations not fiends nor stones but men all forgetful of the general good in their selfish seeking of narrow ends have easily outwitted them. One plain moral of the story is, that no American citizen can afford to palter with the clear duty of casting an intelligent honest fearless ballot. The poor farmers who have despised this obligation reap a great burden of personal hardship. The rich corporations which have defied it bribing buying selling and stealing votes whenever they found it necessary reap the great loss of personal profits. And the great republic sits shame faced because of these money changers in her holiest temple but knows meanwhile that the whips are slowly plaiting which shall scourge them forth.—Christian Union.

PERSONAL NOTES

London letters state that Arabella Goddard is preparing for her tour which will commence this fall in the United States, and include Australia and New Zealand.

Mrs. Scott Siddons returns in October bringing with her a musical prodigy aged 11 who recently won the highest mark of honor in the Royal Academy of Music in London.

Mr. Nast's illustrations of "Pickwick"—the long promised edition by the Harpers—are not considered pleasing. "He has vulgarized all our old friends out of recognition," says one critic, "his campaign caricature style cannot be safely carried into literature, and it is this which he has done."

CITY.

RESCUED FROM INFAMY.—Last evening a little girl, aged about 11 years, was found by Officer Buck in one of the houses of ill-fame on Second street, where she had been decoyed by a procuress. On being taken by the officer from the abode of infamy she told her story, which was certainly a pitiful one if true. The girl gave her name as Mary E. Sullivan. She said that she lived in Kalama, her father went to the States some time ago, leaving her and her mother alone and unprovided for. Her mother, she said, had beat her and treated her with great cruelty for a long time, and which culminated, last week, in the parent driving the child away from home. She was told by the inhuman mother, that if she ever came back again, she (the mother) would kill her. After wandering about and encountering much trouble the girl had managed to get to Portland, where she soon after fell into the hands of the vile creature, in whose house she was found by the officer. Promises of kind treatment, food and clothing were made her, and she, in child-like simplicity, thought that there was nothing wrong in accepting the hospitalities thus tendered by the debased and evil-minded woman, who was seeking to reap a reward for the part she was acting in luring innocence to ruin and disgrace. When the character of the house and the inmate was explained by the officer, the child evinced great willingness to abandon both. Questioning the propriety of placing so young a girl in jail for the night, officer Buck at length obtained admission for her in a private family, where she remained last night. To-day the matter will be investigated. If the child's statements of the wrongs she has endured, are true, the heartless mother should be made to suffer, and at all events, it is an instance which elicits the most lively sympathies for the fate of the hapless wanderer, and should call for prompt assistance.

RUSSIAN STOVE.—A well known gentleman of this city received by the last steamer from Sitka, a model of a Russian stove. These stoves are in general use among the resident Russians of that portion of the country, and are very popular. The model we inspected is simply constructed, and will cost much less than the ordinary parlor and office stoves. It can be made entirely of brick, mortar and sheet iron. The interior of these stoves are built of common brick and mortar or fire clay, divided into several separate compartments, all of which are connected by narrow passages. The outside is covered with sheet-iron. These stoves are like a cylinder in shape and are placed on the end similar to many of the patterns used in offices and counting rooms. They can be constructed of any desirable size, with two or three sections so as to be taken apart and placed together again at pleasure, or as occasion may require. The principal advantage claimed for these stoves is the great difference in the quantity of fuel required. The Russians place one of these heaters in a corner of their humble dwellings and fill it with wood or coal. This will last for six or seven hours, producing a steady, uniform heat, and keeps the apartment comfortable. Less than one-half the fuel is required to produce a steady fire than is necessary with the ordinary stoves. By an ingenious contrivance, and the adjustment of slides these stoves can be made to bake well and perform culinary service.

YOUTHFUL DEPRAVITY.—The boy thief, alluded to in a previous issue, who stole a horse and bridle from a gentleman residing in East Portland, was tried before Recorder J. A. Newell yesterday, charged with grand larceny. In consideration of his tender age (only 11 years), and the promise made by the deeply humiliated and grieved parents of the boy, to send him away, the Recorder discharged the juvenile culprit after administering a fatherly reprimand. The action of the Recorder was perfectly justifiable under the circumstances. The broken and violated law could not be atoned for in the commitment of the boy to the county jail, to await the tardy action of the grand jury. Association with some of the worst criminals, and the humiliation to which he would thus be subjected, could only render him more obdurate and callous, and impart lessons of crimes of greater magnitude on his susceptible mind. The history of youthful depravity demonstrates the fact that the imprisonment of small boys for offenses, like ordinary felons, tends more to make and confirm them in the ways of crime than to effect reformation. One of the most pressing, imperious and growing necessities of Portland is the establishment of a Reform School.

RUNAWAY.—A very lively and exciting runaway occurred yesterday evening about five o'clock. Spaulding Bros., the well known butchers, had left their team, attached to an express wagon, standing in front of the Central Market, at the west end. On finding themselves let loose, the horses started up Second street at a fearful speed. Coming to Washington street one of the horses—a large powerful grey—stumbled and fell headlong. The momentum was so great that the other horse dragged its fallen companion nearly sixty yards before coming to a halt. The fallen animal was thrown violently against the sidewalk in front of the butcher shop at the corner of Washington and Second streets. It was badly bruised, and a large piece of skin torn from its flank and hip. The animal was unable to rise, and had to be carried away to its stable. There is little doubt but what the horse, which is a valuable one, will die from the injuries received.

BODIES REPORTED FOUND.—On the last trip of the California to Sitka, a man by the name of Stevens, who owns a small sloop and is engaged in trading with the Indians in the vicinity of the place where the Geo. S. Wright was wrecked, reported to the officers of the steamer that the Indians told him they had found the bodies of four white men on Arabales Island. They had also found, and had in their possession, the stern post of the lost steamer. The Indians reported that they supposed the men had drifted ashore on the seaside of the Island and attempted to cross the mountain to the main land, but being weak and without food they perished on the mountain, where their bodies were found. The only reports we have had of the sad fate of any of the persons lost on the Wright has been obtained from Indians, and therefore have to be taken for what they are worth.

LEFT BEHIND.—In consequence of the change in the time of leaving by the eastside train, a number of persons, bound Fairward, were left behind yesterday morning. Heretofore the trains have started southward at 8:15 A. M. During the Fair week, the train will leave here at 7:15 A. M. It will be well for the public not to be unmindful of this fact. Had those who returned disappointed yesterday, and were compelled to wait another day, read the papers, and left their couches a little earlier, they would have been happier no doubt.

THE FIRST PAPER.—At the rooms of the Oregon Museum can be seen the first number of the first paper ever issued in Washington Territory. It is a copy of the Columbian, published in Olympia in the year 1852. Considering the necessarily imperfect facilities for publishing a newspaper at that early period in the history of the northwest coast, this copy presents a very neat typographical appearance, and is got up with evidence of good taste and judgment.

OUT DRILLING.—Yesterday the new engine of Multnomah No. 2 was out drilling at the corner of Pine and Second streets. Some new joints were put in a few days ago and it was for the purpose of determining how everything would work. Seventy-five pounds of steam was raised, and a tremendous stream of water was thrown through 100 feet of carbolized hose.

GOING TO SALEM.—The East Portland Band were practicing last evening preparatory to the coming musical contest. This morning the band will start for the Fair, where they propose to play for the premium. Arrangements have also been effected by which the band will furnish music to-morrow at the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the State Capitol.

AMOUNT OF FINES.—Sixteen persons were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning for various offenses. In clearing the docket the Judge found it necessary to impose fines to the amount of $125. The costs in these cases will probably [illegible] the sum of $150. This is no bad showing for blue Monday.

L. R. SOCIETY.—The Ladies' Relief Society will meet at 2 o'clock to-day at the usual place.

INSANE PATIENTS.—Two insane persons were examined yesterday before Judge Hamilton, and were ordered to be removed at once to the Asylum. Their names were John Burk and James Peoples. Both these men were sent some time ago to the Poor House; but on manifesting symptoms of insanity were brought to the city. The cause of insanity is unknown.

EVENING SESSIONS.—Young men who are engaged in business during the day time, but who are desirous of improving their minds and acquiring a knowledge of the practical branches of education, should read the announcement made in another column by Prof. Royal. Evening sessions are held all through the week except on Saturday.

TIGER CO. NO. 5.—This company is in a very prosperous condition, considering its recent organization. A handsome and commodious engine house has been finished and will soon be furnished. The engine which will be used by the company has been overhauled and repaired, and everything is in good, effective working condition.

GOOD TIME.—Eleven hours for a steamer to tow a vessel from Astoria to Portland is regarded as very good time. This time was made by the steamer Emma Hayward last Saturday. The brig Orient was towed up the whole distance in the time mentioned.

STILL ABSENT.—Judge Deady did not arrive from his trip to Victoria on Saturday as was anticipated. In consequence there was no session of the United States Circuit Court which was to meet yesterday morning. He will probably arrive overland this evening.

FREE LECTURE.—J. Q. Welch will deliver a free lecture at Hall street Church, commencing Friday next, (Oct. 10th,) at 7½ o'clock P. M. Also on Saturday the 11th, at the same time and place. Subject—"Law and Adaptation," or "God in Nature."

REGULAR ELECTION.—The three Lodges of Druids—Marvin, Concordia and Cleanthe—in this city, will hold their regular meetings for the election of officers on the last Monday, Thursday and Friday evenings respectively of this month.

ARRIVED.—The barkentine Webfoot arrived at this port yesterday morning from Astoria. She came from San Francisco with lime and salt. To-day stevedores will begin to hoist freight from the hold.

Yesterday was one of the coolest days we have experienced this fall.

The Calliope brought up a big load of hay and a number of sheep yesterday.

The temporary excitement caused by the monetary crisis East has quieted down.

A large water main is being laid along Stark street between Fourth and Fifth streets.

Trout, venison, chickens and oysters, the best, delivered by Quinn of Union Market.

The third and last story is being added to the building for the Bank of British Columbia.

Blue noses, with a slight alcoholic tinge, are once more in full bloom, these cold morning.

Overcoats are beginning to have a market value; whilst linen is looked upon with a shiver.

The new steamers for Columbian and Willamette Engine Co.'s are expected to arrive on the Ajax.

An immense freight train, laden with wheat, came down the track yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Multnomah Co. No. 2 intend to attend the State Fair—provided they receive their uniforms in time.

Present appearances would indicate that there will be no necessity for a street sprinkler during the State Fair.

Our evening cotemporary vociferates for an ordinance to restrain yelping canines during the night. Cur-tail 'em.

The schooner Superior sailed the day previous to the departure of the Orient, but still she has failed to put in an appearance here.

The Oregon Museum will open this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The rooms are at the corner of Ash and First streets, Smith's block, second story.

The B street extension, at the western end, is being planked. Though not quite finished, wagons can safely pass over the new street either way.

On the authority of an exchange it is stated that Miss White Cloud, daughter of the Indian chief, has confided her hopes of earthly bliss to a native of Ireland named Pat McGuire.

The young ladies are indiscreet enough to declare confidentially that it is ever so much nicer to sit behind the stove, doubly armed, these cold nights, than to swing on old gates.

We have it, but not upon the authority of our ministerial friends, that profanity may be indulged in to a limited extent during the present cool weather until the stovepipes are all put up.

Luscious ripe blackberries, just picked from the vines at this season of the year, would be thought quite a rarity in the Eastern States; but such have been plentiful in the market for a week past.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

We invite special attention to the card of Mrs. Ach in another column. She is selling out a splendid assortment of all kinds of dry and fancy goods.

A steady stream of people have visited Stone at his new store, and he is still able to wait upon more. The finest goods only are to be had of him, and it is therefore proper to call on him.

There is not a family in Portland who should be without oysters while Keith is selling them at fifty cents per hundred. Such is the case; and, furthermore, he receives Eastern oysters by every steamer for those who prefer them to others.

Our fellow-town-man W. Aschenheim, during his absence at the State Fair, where he represents the State at large with the finest assortment of fruits of all kinds, entrusted his business here to his clerk, who will show every attention to the wants of his patrons and the public in general. So give him a call.

PERSONAL.

Mr. D. J. Malarkey is, we regret to announce, confined to his room with a severe attack of the rheumatism.

William A. Daly, who has been confined to his room for over two weeks with severe illness, is again able to get around.

THE COURTS.

In the absence of the President, Mr. Van Cleave, on motion Mr. Hoyt was chosen President pro tem.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

A petition from J. H. Frush and 13 others, asking for the construction of a slip or apron at the foot of J street, connecting the street with the Willamette river. Referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

Mr. Severson introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That the City Attorney is hereby directed to examine and report as to whether the road within the city limits, on which the Fitch Bridge is situated, is a properly recorded county road.

On motion the Board adjourned.

FASHION NOTES.

The new polonaise is called after the late Empress of the French, who still lives in hearts a la mode. It is a model of simplicity, is cut square, and has plain buttons.

The royal color is blue, of which there are twenty shades, ranging from ciel to enfer, or from the lightest reflection of a cloudless sky upon the motionless lake, to the deepest of blue-blacks.

The inevitable black silk dress is in the trousseau, which is richly trimmed with three narrow kilt pleats, attenuated with broad puffs. The overskirt, in one with the dress, cut en tablier, with demi-train and natural drapery.

Soft woolen goods are largely imported, English and French serges, cashmeres, cashmere serges, Armure cloths, drap d'ete, velour epangle, figured Biarritz cloth, and satin de Chine, are among the most popular of these fabrics.

Camel's hair is to be the favorite material, its soft and clinging character making it not only desirable but almost necessary for the new styles. It makes a handsome overdress; and worn over a silk skirt of the same shade, or of a contrasting color, is very stylish.

Velvet is the regulation trimming for fall and winter suits; and nothing less is en regle, though a few other trimmings are permissible; and the woman of taste and refinement has no objection to make, whether on the score of fitness and fineness, or durability and economy.

A pleasing evening dress is an Empress trail of pale green silk, flounced from waist to point, although, as a question of taste, it might not be so well liked as another—a pansy trimmed dress, in which a polonaise, with steel pen trail, could be looped through a hanging sash.

In millinery there is revolution. It came in a night, but was none the less thorough and complete in its victory than if it had been the result of a long struggle. The Alpine, Schutzenfest, and every other style popular during the twelvemonth, has either disappeared or will be seen no more after a week or two.

The traveling dress is of pearl gray silk, en demi-train, the overskirt being made with the dress sweeping diagonally across and moderately bouffant. The boddice is cut square in front, with gilet chemisette and ruff. The trimmings are flat, and of the same material. The sleeves are open to the elbow.

There is a fourth dress for evening wear, of pale blue silk, elaborately trimmed with lace. This dress is made of the new shade called "water blue," which must be seen before a just conception of this exquisite color can be formed. A fifth dress of olive brown silk, with velvet facings and trimming, is extremely rich in effect.

She who purchases silk must have it trimmed with velvet; and she who purchases woolen goods or inferior silks finds that for $4 a yard she can purchase as fine colors in velvets as her more favored sister can for $10, and produce the same effect. Velvets will not only be used in trimmings, but also for polonaises and redingotes by all who can afford it.

The English walking-jacket has already found favor, and requires no prophet to predict its universal adoption. It is a wrap, easy fitting and convenient, trimmed with band and cuffs of velvet or silk, the same shade as the cloth. Basques are still worn, and there is little or no change in the styles. The favorite has a plain front, slopes over the hips, and at the back has two long swallow-tails, with bows on the ends.

One pretty walking-dress, neat and stylish, is of navy-blue foulard, with large white polka dots. At the bottom, which is about three and a quarter yards in circumference, is broad pleats, with a white silk cord laid on in Grecian style around the edges of the skirt, the overskirt and the sleeve. The corsage is tight, with a long redingote, cut single-breasted and high in the neck, just opening to show the ruff and the white chemisette.

It is early in the season yet for marriages, but one trousseau—we have heard of—will guide the style of many. The robes are heavy, white satin—dead, creamy white, the newly imported shade which will, this winter, be worn exclusively for such occasions in London and Paris—with overdresses of tulle and lace, looped and trimmed with roses and the never absent orange blossom. The corsage is cut low, but not very low—modest, yet modist.

Forty years experience have tested the virtues of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and it is now generally acknowledged to be the best remedy extant for pulmonary and lung diseases, embracing the whole range from a slight cold to a settled consumption. Were it not for its merits, it would long since have "died, and made no sign."

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU is the only reliable remedy for diseases of the urinary organs. Take it in season, and do not be imposed upon by quacks and imposters. We are glad to learn that the absence of the celebrated Dr. Helmbold has not prevented the continued manufacture of the Buchu, so well known as the only efficient remedy for diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs. There are counterfeits of this most excellent medicine. Genuine has proprietor's private stamp. John F. Henry, New York, Sole Agent.

A UNIVERSAL REMEDY.—"BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES," for Coughs, Colds and Bronchial Affections, stand first in public favor and confidence; this result has been acquired by a test of many years.

Every mother should see that her darling boy is well clothed for the winter. Messrs. BECK & WALDMAN make a specialty of selling Youths' clothing and have a complete stock on hand. The prices are fixed to suit those who wish to economize. They have a full line of gentlemen's fall suits and everything in furnishing goods. They give satisfaction to all. Be sure to recollect this well known firm.

Parsons' Purgative Pills will greatly relieve if not entirely cure dyspepsia when everything else fails. They have been tried in some desperate cases and have given more relief than any other medicine.

New Life for the Languid.

Perfect health is vouchsafed to few. Probably ninety people out of every hundred who call themselves healthy have their "turns" of languor, exhaustion, depression of spirits and bodily pain. At these times a wineglassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is as refreshing as "the shadow of a rock in a weary land." It invigorates and rests the system and cheers the mind. The effect of the Bitters in cases of nervous debility, produced either by undue physical exertion, over study, intense anxiety, or any other cause, is wonderfully reviving and invigorating. In fact this healthful vegetable restorative possesses medicinal properties which entitle it to the rank of an article of prime necessity, and it should be kept on hand in every dwelling, and promptly taken as a remedy for all the minor ailments as well as for more serious complaints.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.

The Gazelle brought a load of lumber for the Government wharf, on Sunday night. The carpenters are making a substantial job of the wharf.

Mrs. Wyche and daughter, whose names appeared in the passenger list last Saturday, are still in Vancouver. They were delayed on account of the continued illness of the daughter.

Farmers are praying for rain, the earth being too dry for plowing. The grass has so dried up on the uplands that rain is very much needed for the benefit of stock. Beef is growing tough.

Tom Padden, of the Shades Saloon, and Miss Byrne, daughter of Mr. Byrne, of the Vancouver House, were made happy this (Monday) morning. The marriage was solemnized at the Catholic Cathedral.

Game is becoming plenty. Sportsmen bring in quantities of pheasants, grouse and ducks; quail are growing plenty in some localities, but as it is a short time since they first made their appearance here, huntsmen are careful not to shoot them.

Col. Mason, one of the leading officers of the Modoc campaign, has just returned from a trip to Sitka. He will spend the winter at Fort Vancouver. Gen. Granger will soon depart on an extended leave of absence. He sells his household furniture at auction next Saturday.

A CURIOUS ANIMAL CAPTURED IN TULARE COUNTY—THE REPUTED WILD MAN OF THE MOUNTAINS.—The "wild man," of which so many accounts have been published, has at last been captured, as Mr. Charles Converse informs us. It turns out to be a species of nondescript very like a bear, although it entirely lacks arms or fore legs, and walks upright like a man. Mr. Converse thinks it is a deformed bear. Messrs. Shaft (or Shaffe) and Johnson, who captured him, will be in town to-day. They propose to sell their "catch" to Woodward, and will telegraph to that gentleman in regard to the lusus naturæ they have secured. They had to shoot and wound him before catching him. Mr. Converse came down from the mountains on horseback and passed the captors of the "What is it?" on the way down with a team. When they arrive we shall be able to learn the full particulars in regard to this new wonder of the Sierras.—Tulare Times, Sept. 27th.

Many valuable horses die from the effects of colic. The best thing to do in a case of this kind is to pour a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment into a long-necked junk bottle, add half pint of molasses and water, then pour the whole down the horse's throat. In ten minutes the horse will begin to eat.

THE FIGHTING McCOOKS.

The Dayton Journal states that Gen. Edwin Stanton McCook, who was assassinated by Wintermute, is the fifth member of the family who met violent deaths. Three were slain in battle, and two assassinated.

Charles M. McCook, the younger, was killed at the first battle of Bull Run, July 21, 1861, when he was in his 18th year, serving as a private soldier in the 2d O. V. I.

Brig Gen Robert L. McCook, fourth son of Major Daniel McCook, was assassinated by rebel guerrillas, near Decherd, Tennessee, August 5, 1862, while sick in his ambulance, in his 36th year.

Major Daniel McCook, the father of the family, was killed at Buffington Island, in the Ohio river, while in pursuit of John Morgan in his celebrated raid through Ohio, on the 21st of July, 1863, the second anniversary of the death of his youngest son, Charles.

Brigadier General Daniel McCook was killed at the battle of Kenesaw Mountain, in his 30th year. He was the sixth son.

And lastly, Edwin Stanton McCook, who was assassinated as above reported. He also was in the service of the country.

But three sons of that large family, namely Colonel George W. McCook, the eldest son; Major General A. McD. McCook, now serving with his regiment in Texas, and Captain John McCook, who is practicing law.

A BUNGLING EXECUTION

HANGING OF CONNOR IN LIVERPOOL—THE ROPE BREAKS—EIGHT MINUTES OF [illegible]—CALCRAFT, THE FAMOUS HANGMAN, DISTRESSED

[From the Liverpool Mercury, Sept 9th]

James Connor, who was convicted at the last Liverpool Assizes of the murder of James Gaffney, in Mill street, Toxteth Park, in this town on the night of the 11th ult. was executed yesterday morning within the precincts of Kirkdale jail.

* * * *

The execution of the condemned man was fixed to take place at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. There was some doubt as to who was to be the executioner, it being said that Calcraft had "retired from business," and that some one else would perform the disagreeable task. This at first appeared to be the truth, or rather there seemed a probability of there being no executioner at all, for Calcraft, who had been [illegible], did not arrive at the jail until a late hour on Sunday night.

He

MOUNTED THE STEPS BRAVELY

Walked straight on to the drop under the cross [illegible] his eyes above at the fatal noose and then looked straight in front, smiled pleasantly and nodded to two warders who were standing a short distance off. His coolness [illegible] for a moment seemed to forsake him, and there was a bravado about the whole affair which gave an additional horror to the proceedings, the condemned man being apparently the least moved of those present. Calcraft [illegible] the white cap over his face, placed a [illegible] and his legs bid him a farewell by [illegible] one of his hands and adjusted the [illegible] and in another moment the drop fell [illegible]

And the strands of the broken end flew in the air. The condemned criminal fell on to a section [illegible], which was fitted two or three feet lower than the treacherous trap-door upon which he had stood. He remained in an upright [illegible] except that being pinioned, he [illegible] of the platform. Some of the [illegible] attended upon the unfortunate man, but a pair of steps had to be procured before he could be got out of his position [illegible] on to the upper part of the scaffold. The poor man uttered exclamations of [illegible], on being got to the upper platform [illegible], the white cap was [illegible] above [illegible], and he was placed on a [illegible]

After the first [illegible] of pain the condemned man said [illegible] to one who was [illegible] him from the [illegible] "What do you call this? do you call this murder?" and afterwards he [illegible] "You should let me off after this; this is [illegible]" The mark of the rope round

While Connor was seated on the [illegible] preparations were going on to make [illegible] at the next attempt, Father [illegible] his attention by reading the [illegible] to him, stooping to him and directing [illegible] to the book. The prisoner at [illegible] the priest remarking, "I [illegible] the pain," but he afterwards [illegible] the book and [illegible] once or [illegible] mercy upon me." A fresh [illegible] brought the condemned man [illegible] with the utmost concern and re-

[illegible] the executioner was ready, [illegible] the chair placed himself on [illegible], his [illegible] only pinioned [illegible] his breast so that he [illegible] the white cap with his hands, [illegible] his face [illegible] and then [illegible] the rope round his [illegible] Calcraft once [illegible] the door fell, the prisoner [illegible] or two, and then [illegible] of the body and lower [illegible] he suffered. He was a [illegible], and he [illegible] to die [illegible] first time the drop fell it was two [illegible] the [illegible] time the [illegible] it was ten minutes past 8, so [illegible] just eight minutes for the second [illegible]. Before [illegible] for brigade drill, the regiments [illegible]. The 11th regiment is [illegible] by Colonel Frederick Vilmar, [illegible] with his men. At a command [illegible] arms, Frederick Cramer, of [illegible] to obey. The Colonel [illegible] and said "Obey the command." [illegible] Cramer stepped in front [illegible] line and replied "Who are you? [illegible] Colonel, you're a jackass." [illegible] Colonel [illegible] ordered the Adjutant [illegible], and the drill was resumed. [illegible] the regiment was dismissed [illegible] which a half hour was [illegible]. In the [illegible] the Captain of I company [illegible] the request of his men, applied to the [illegible]. It was refused [illegible] was then reformed, and the Colonel [illegible] "Attention" upon which Company [illegible] and demanded that their [illegible] to his place in the line. [illegible] reported the fact to General Funk [illegible] his [illegible] one a company of the [illegible] was detailed to arrest the insubordinates, and they were marched to the guard [illegible]. Just previous to the arrest the regiment [illegible] a command to march off [illegible], had grounded arms in obedience [illegible] from Colonel Vilmar. After the [illegible] was marched off the third regiment [illegible] filed in between the men and their [illegible]. The company officers of the 11th were [illegible] to the front and addressed by [illegible] Funk, who told them to go home and [illegible] for further orders.

The officers conferred with the men, and [illegible] their arms should be restored if they [illegible] quiet, but they refused to be pacified and [illegible] declared that they should not [illegible] Vilmar's commands. The Eighty fourth [illegible] sent by General Funk to assist the [illegible] in arresting the entire body which had marched out in the morning 300 strong [illegible] quit the park at 1 o'clock and were five [illegible] in making the route back. They were [illegible] to the Ludlow street jail but Warden Tracy said he had no room for so many [illegible]. From there they were escorted to the Arsenal at White and Elm streets and locked up under guard of F company Eighty fourth regiment. When the arsenal was reached the prisoners had dwindled down to 100, and about 40 more escaped from the building in the evening.

General Funk telegraphed from Brooklyn to Superintendent of Police Matsell for assistance when the regiment arrived in the city. Forty policemen met them at the South ferry. On the march up Broadway the prisoners made no attempt to break away but on the route through Brooklyn they could not be restrained. Men escaped by jumping fences and dodging through hallways. The guards were thoroughly exercised in chasing the fugitives. Three of them were wounded. Christopher [illegible] [illegible] and was stabbed in the right breast. The injury is serious. The stabbing was seen by his wife, who stood on the sidewalk. Henry Clem was stabbed in the arm and Martin Kolb in the left shoulder. Corporal Gentz was sunstruck. A number of the mutineers are

NOT MEMBERS OF THE REGIMENT

Having turned out yesterday at the request of their friends who are members merely to fill up the ranks. All but twelve members of Company I escaped. They were lodged in the Ludlow Street Jail. Brigade Quartermaster A. F. Geng[illegible], at his own expense, supplied the prisoners in the arsenal with food and coffee.

General Funk telegraphed to Albany to the Adjutant-General of the State, but having received no answer at 11 o'clock, went by the 11 o'clock train to confer with the Governor as he does not know what to do with the men.

At 10 o'clock by request of the General Inspector Will[illegible] sent out orders for eight policemen to relieve the military on guard. This number will be kept there until the Governor decides what position to make of the mutineers.

The line officers of the regiment were all placed under arrest on the field. General Funk says the trouble has been brewing for a long time, arising from the opposition to Colonel Vilmar and the company officers have aided and abetted the men in their course. This disaffection, it is said, was intensified yesterday by the fact that while the other regiments were permitted to reject the park in the cars, the Eleventh was compelled to walk.

The guns of the regiment and the colors were brought over in a truck and delivered at brigade headquarters whence General Funk will direct their disposition after receiving orders from Albany.—New York Sun.

Our latest exchanges from the East are filled with details of the panic and speculations as to the probable effect on the business of the country. The panic has been very severe upon the holders of railroad bonds. The bankers engaged in negotiating some of the largest loans for important railroads have suspended payment and the bonds are of course greatly depreciated and unsalable.

In regard to the failure of Messrs Jay Cooke & Co the New York Times makes the following statement:

The cause of this deplorable event to one of the first houses in the country, the house most closely connected and identified with the great negotiations of the Government during the war and after its close, it is too early perhaps to go into. But the chief mistake we have reasons to apprehend originated in too generous enterprise and it may be excessive enthusiasm and confidence of the senior partner, Mr Jay Cooke as connected with the great North Pacific undertaking. With this immense scheme, his New York partners, and one at least of his Philadelphia house were reluctant, from the start, to sympathize and only consented to advances limited to $500,000 on the current sales, by popular subscription, of 7.30 per cent. land mortgage. The excessively dear money market of last spring and the partial disturbance to confidence in new railroad undertakings virtually suspended the free subscriptions to this loan after the months of January and February, and the serious effect of this difficulty was not appreciated by Mr Cooke until he had committed himself to obligations in the prosecution of his great enterprise which had to be met by his banking house to a greatly larger sum than was originally contemplated.

The Philadelphia Ledger thinks the merchants are but little troubled by this panic, because they have of late bought and sold but sparingly on credits, and they can wait for quieter times to settle their mutual accounts by checks passing through bank in the ordinary way without actual change of money. The great railroad corporations are prepared to pay the current demands upon them for interest and dividends, and other ordinary liabilities and they are abundantly able to meet all their accruing debts. The brunt of the crisis falls upon the stock brokers and their customers, upon the men who have bought and sold stocks for a rise or fall, who have loaned money on stocks and bonds at a margin, whose capital was put upon the turn of the stock list, and whose fortunes have been swept away by the absorption of their margins, or the shrinkage of values. The temptation to grow rich rapidly and without work is hard to resist, and some of those who yielded to it are now paying the penalty in finding themselves impoverished.

The Providence Press says the mercantile interests is in quite a sound condition everywhere, business having been conducted on a conservative basis. The failures have been confined to brokers and banks connected with them. So many failures will affect business sympathetically, but there is good reason to believe that the crisis will pass without any serious damage outside the stock interest. The panic will have the good effect to check over trading and induce cash transactions, rather than credit operations. The over trading has been in stocks and the crisis will as a general thing touch only [illegible] over whom it will not be best to shed many tears.

[illegible] Market.

WHEAT—The amount now in store is very large, and is constantly increasing by receipts from the interior. Of the several vessels due to load at this port none are yet here, and it would seem but little more storage room can be found here until they arrive. In the meantime, owing to the decline in prices, farmers are unwilling to sell while shippers at the same time are not disposed to urge the market, and say they "have all the wheat wanted at present." They quietly take all offering at $1 80 per cental but transactions are limited to a few small lots.

FLOUR—The market seems to maintain a decidedly firm tone, and the agents of our various State mills appear to be doing a fair amount of business. The local demand is brisk. We quote best brands at $6 50 ℔ bbl; good country and outside brands, $5 50@6; fine, $4; superfine, $4 50. The market shows no tendency to weaken under the decline in Wheat.

OATS—We notice quite a demand and large arrivals to supply the home and shipping demand. Reports from the interior are still reaching us confirming prior accounts of a heavy yield, which has now nearly all been harvested in excellent condition. Quotations to-day are 45c ℔ bushel.

BARLEY—There is considerable inquiry for shipping, which is likely to continue as the trade on this coast is this year supplying a much larger scope of country than heretofore. Our market is firm at $1 40@1 45 ℔ 100 lbs.

FEED—Quietness prevails in this market though prices are steadily maintained. We quote jobbing prices for Bran $16 ℔ ton; Shorts $22 50@25 00; Chops, etc $[illegible]@28.

HAY—The supply has visibly increased since the close of harvest but quotations are firm at $1[illegible]@14 ℔ ton for good to best baled Timothy and $10@11 for loose.

POTATOES—The supply is quite adequate to the home demand, while no shipments of consequence are being made. Prices here vary as much as quality the choicest varieties being quotable at 40c ℔ bushel while inferior range from 30c upward and are dull sale.

ONIONS—The receipts have largely increased and prices are dull at 2c ℔ ℔.

APPLES—The market is well supplied with all the varieties in season at figures which bring them within the reach of all. We quote at 40@60 cents ℔ box.

BACON—Some inquiry is noticed for choice lots of country cured, established and fancy brands of breakfast, all at an advance of one half to one cent per pound. We quote ordinary lots at 14c ℔ ℔ for hams, 11@12c for sides, and 9c for shoulders.

LARD—Fresh Oregon lard is in demand at 11c ℔ ℔ in kegs and 12½@13c in tins.

BUTTER—There is more call for a prime article and prices are a shade firmer. We quote best dairy for table use at [illegible] ℔ ℔ and an active demand. Inferior lots are more freely offered at 18@20c ℔ ℔.

CHEESE—We note a continued fair supply from our State dairies selling to jobbers at 16@17½c ℔ ℔.

CHICKENS—But few lots are coming forward and our last given quotations are firmly maintained.

EGGS—There is a more active demand for fresh receipts and buyers offering freely 25c ℔ dozen for such. The supply seems falling off.

BEEF CATTLE—Some improvement in prices is noted since our last review and for choice lots of young cattle offers are made at [illegible] ℔ ℔ on foot.

DRESSED HOGS—No activity is witnessed in the market, and prices are weak at 6c ℔ ℔.

SHEEP—The best sheep for mutton command $[illegible] ℔ head—smaller $2@2 50. The supply is small.

WOOL—But few transactions are noted. The best is offering are held at 25c ℔ ℔ but just now buyers are scarce. Appearances indicate that fall prices will range above those of last spring.

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible D[illegible]

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of [illegible] indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation they [illegible] suffer until death closes the scene. Let [illegible] [illegible] tend to those who are suffering with any of [illegible] horrible, life-destroying [illegible] that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send [illegible] immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private [illegible] his [illegible] study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, as to those who are interested in the welfare of their [illegible], to be careful of the many pretended doctors who [illegible] all cities, publishing their skill in curing all [illegible] in a few days, imposing upon the public by [illegible] the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of [illegible] charlatans.

Seminal Weakness

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an [illegible] unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz. Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, [illegible] like the [illegible] of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night [illegible] frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, [illegible] apply immediately, either in person or by [illegible] and have a cure effected by his new and scientific [illegible] of treating this disease, which never fails of [illegible] ing a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco [illegible]

Ma[illegible]

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these [illegible] maladies, should not forget the sacred [illegible] ability [illegible] upon nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DR. GIBBON is [illegible], and will give to patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and [illegible] cure, or make no charge.

Cured at H[illegible]

P[illegible] at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon [illegible] case, symptoms, length of time the [illegible] has [illegible] and have medicines [illegible] safely forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the [illegible] with full and plain directions. By [illegible] Ten Dollars coin in [illegible] through the Post office or through Wells, Fargo & Co. a [illegible] of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the U[illegible]

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus [illegible] the [illegible]. Some of the self-styled [illegible] names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and [illegible] tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are [illegible], carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in [illegible] any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients, [illegible] etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he [illegible] to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Postoffice Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.
